III.A.4. FIRST 5 KINDERGARTEN READINESS REPORT

Background

First 5 Contra Costa's School Readiness Initiative has funded Harder+Company Community Research to conduct kindergarten Entry Profiles in 30 selected elementary schools in three Contra Costa County school districts. These 30 schools receive School Readiness funding from First 5 Contra Costa and matching funds from First 5 California.

Data were collected by kindergarten teachers within the first 30 days of the 2005-2006 school year using the Modified Desired Results Developmental Profile (MDRDP).<sup>1</sup> This tool is used by First 5 California to measure the effectiveness of the School Readiness Initiative. It is also used as a program evaluation system to measure the effectiveness of California Department of Education-funded child development programs. Information was collected on four dimensions of a child's development:

1. Cognition and general knowledge;
2. Emotional well-being;
3. Approaches to learning; and
4. Communicative skills.

Parents of kindergarteners were also asked to complete written surveys with relevant information about their children and home environments.

Findings

Overall, 46% of kindergarteners—or 1,326 children—at these 30 schools had parent surveys and MDRDPs completed on their behalf. Two out of three children surveyed were Hispanic/Latino, followed by 10% Black/African American, 6% Asian, 6% multi-ethnic, and 4% White, Non-Hispanic. One-third of the children surveyed were fluent in English only, 35% were fluent in Spanish only, and 25% were fluent in Spanish and English. Four percent were fluent in English and another language.

Over 70% of families reported incomes lower than $30,000 in 2004, and almost half of the parents reported less than a high school education. Eight percent of parents who responded are college graduates. The report categorized findings into the following areas:

- Health indicators;
- Pre-kindergarten activities;
- kindergarten transition; and
- kindergarten readiness.

<sup>1</sup> For more information on the MDRDP, visit the Child Development Division website: <http://www.cde.ca.gov/sp/cd/ci/drdpforms.asp>, as well as the State First 5 website: <http://www.cfc.ca.gov/SchoolReady1.htm>.

Below are highlights from the report.

Health Indicators

Over 90% of children had health insurance, over three-quarters lived in a smoke-free environment, and only 5% had been professionally diagnosed with a developmental delay.

Pre-Kindergarten Activities

Sixty-eight percent of children attended a preschool or child care program, while a smaller percentage reported attending a summer Pre-kindergarten program, Parent-Child Cooperative, Family Literacy preschool, or licensed family child care. Seventy percent of parents received information on kindergarten readiness from their child's schools, and over half visited their child's kindergarten classrooms and/or attended the schools' kindergarten orientation. (According to AP guide, kindergarten is not capped)

Kindergarten Transition

Four out of five parents reported that their child's transition to kindergarten was very easy or somewhat easy. The transition was somewhat easier for girls and for children fluent in Spanish only.

Kindergarten Readiness

Three factors were shown to make a significant difference in the MDRDP scores:

- gender;
- parental education; and
- previous preschool experience.

Girls were almost six times more likely than boys to have mastered all MDRDP items. Children whose parents reported more than a high school education were 3.8 times more likely to have mastered all items on the MDRDP. Children who attended preschool were 3.2 times more likely to have mastered all items on the MDRDP.

Implications

First 5 should continue its school readiness efforts in the 30 elementary schools, continue to track the kindergarten Entry Profiles of as many children as possible, and consider expanding their funding to additional elementary schools with low Academic Index Performance scores. Further exploration on the gender differences in the MDRDP scores is needed, as well as research and development on effective strategies for reducing gender disparities.

(1) This is not a complete list of every elementary school in the County. Data was collected for schools with API scores between 1 and 5 in any of the three years.

(2) 2005 Statewide API Rank: The API for all schools are rank-ordered and divided into ten equal groups, called deciles, from one (lowest) to ten (highest). A school's statewide rank compares the school's performance to other California schools. Each decile contains 10 percent of all schools.

(3) Percentage of children participating in free or reduced price lunches was based on information from the California Department of Education Ed-Data website which provides reports on individual schools in California (www.ed-data.k12.ca.us).
